

Service

Chartis can provide expert resource support to our clients in a number of ways:

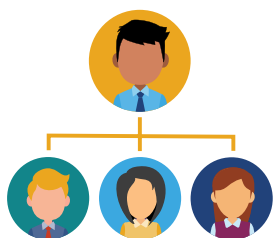

Project delivery expertise

Our SMEs and analysts can provide key sector or issue expertise to our clients.

Program advisory and design

Chartis provide independent third party review and guidance on complex development, marketing and implementation programs.

Meeting facilitators

We work closely with our clients to structure and run effective meetings and workshops to maximise the return on time invested.

Trusted advisors

With our deep research background and industry experience, we are able to provide pragmatic and independent advice to our clients on a one-off basis or as a retained advisory resource.

Event chairpersons, panelists and speakers

Our research directors are well known in the industry and can speak at events, join panels and roundtables or chair sessions.

Chartis Advisory Network

We can also source expertise from our network of external industry experts: the Chartis Advisory Network. This is a pre-qualified and select group of experts who provide specific skillsets to our clients.

Publication and promotional expertise

As part of the wider Infopro Digital group, which houses brands including Risk.net, WatersTechnology and FX markets, we can provide coordinated access to journalistic, events and marketing expertise.
